Tropical Storm Gordon moves through the Glades this week dumping over 4 inches of rain in our area. Local mills are shut down until at least Friday and agricultural production has come to a stand still. SUNPHOTO by Brenda Bunting

Tropical Storm Gordon shuts down harvest in the Glades

Tropical Storm Gordon has temporarily shut down harvest of sugarcane in the Glades.
 Both Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative and U.S. Sugar Corporation have sent workers home until at least Friday.
 Depending upon the duration of the storm affecting the area, and the amount of wind and rain, workers could be laid off for several days.
 Walter Parker, director of agricultural operation for U.S. Sugar said, "We are completely at the mercy of the weather with storms like Gordon. Our fields are flooded and until they are dry enough to harvest, the mills cannot operate."
 To make matters worse, he said, the strong winds and heavy rains have flattened many acres of sugarcane to the ground, which will make harvest operations for U.S. Sugar more costly and difficult when they resume and could reduce the sugar content as well.
 Barbara Miedema, media relations director for Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative, said some cane is lying down in this area, but she didn't anticipate a problem with harvest.

Needy can get a free Thanksgiving meal

In what has become a yearly tradition, the needy in the Glades won't have to go hungry on Thanksgiving Day.
 All elderly, handicapped and needy resident in the Belle Glade area are invited to share a Thanksgiving celebration sponsored by the Simon P. Mosely family and Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc.
 Simon Mosely died several years ago, but his tradition of feeding the poor on this holiday is being carried out by his widow, Lillie Mosely, and the local sorority. This will be the 10th annual event and it will be held again this year at the Lake Shore Civic Center from noon to 4 p.m.
 Those who are sick or shut in and would like a meal, or anyone who can volunteer to make deliveries, is asked to call Mrs. Mosely on Wednesday, Nov. 23, from noon until 4 p.m. at 996-2636 or 996-9342.
 Those who wish to donate to help provide meals for the needy can send a check to: Simon P. Mosely Thanksgiving Fund, P.O. Box 546, Belle Glade.

Man dies after being shot in the back

By Brenda Bunting
 Editor
 Emergency medical personnel from Belle Glade Fire Rescue and Everglades Regional Medical Center were summoned to the scene of a shooting on Nov. 8 and found Marvin Allen, 37, with a bullet wound in the back.
 Allen was found lying in the hallway of a building at 524 S.W. Seventh Street, Belle Glade. He was taken to Glades General Hospital and was pronounced dead at about 9 p.m.
 Police investigation revealed that Allen and another man, later identified as Eardis Lee Nixon, 23, of Belle Glade had been in a fist fight and witnesses said Nixon allegedly beat Allen about the face and head.
 According to a report by the Belle Glade Police Department, Nixon apparently left the building and met with a 17-year-old who had a 25 caliber semi-automatic pistol. Nixon and the juvenile returned to area and confronted Allen. Police say the juvenile fired a single shot, striking Allen in the back.
 Nixon and the juvenile were both caught and arrested by Belle Glade Police.
 Both were charged with first degree murder and person engaged in a criminal offense using weapons.
 Nixon is being held without bond and the juvenile is in the juvenile detention center in West Palm Beach.

Raiders named district champs after forfeiture

Tammy Jackson
 Staff Reporter
 After Glades Central lost their only game to Clewiston, the Raiders were named runners up in their district. However, after it was noted that Clewiston was playing with an ineligible player, the Raiders were named the district champions Wednesday, Nov. 16, and Clewiston was forced to forfeit all of their games for the season.
 Clewiston's ineligible player was a former student and athlete at Pahokee High School. According to officials, the student was ineligible to play football at PHS this year because his GPA was below 2.0. (Palm Beach County schools require a 2.0 GPA to participate in any sporting activities.) Clewiston is located in Hendry County and Hendry County requires at least a 1.5 GPA. Officials state the youth's aunt, who lives in Clewiston, posed as his mother and forged registration forms and presented a notarized document stating she was the youth's mother. This made it possible for him to attend school and play football in Clewiston.
 When the act of deceit was noticed, Florida High School Activities Association Commissioner Ron Davis ruled Clewiston was not in compliance and they must forfeit all of their wins. According to reports, he (the player) violated FHSAA bylaws regarding his residency.
 The forfeiture named the Raiders as the district champions and gave them home-field advantage in the Friday night game against Naples-Lely tomorrow night. The runners-up in the district were determined Wednesday during a Kansas City tie-breaker between Okaloosa, South Fork and Suncoast. The winner of that game meets Immokalee tomorrow night in Immokalee.

U.S. Sugar and Dept. of Labor reach settlement

U.S. Sugar Corporation and the United States Department of Labor agreed to settle the results of a company-requested Wage and Hour audit concerning how H-2A guest worker sugar cane cutters were paid for sharpening their knives after hours, cleaning their personal safety equipment and other issues.
 The company agreed to pay approximately $59,000 to a total of 1,188 workers covering the period from January 1990 through December 1992.
 In a separate matter, the company agreed to pay $28,000 to reimburse transportation costs for workers from the lower Caribbean after those costs were not covered by the workers' government.
 U.S. Sugar also agreed that certain managers of company commissaries in farm villages would be treated as non-exempt employees and thus entitled to overtime pay. The company said it would pay any overtime due 10 managers for the last two years. Currently, at DOL's request, commissary managers who do not supervise two or more employees are considered non-exempt.
 The equipment settlement payments go to cane cutters from time the Department of Labor said the cutters spent sharpening their cane knives when they were off duty and in their village residences. Workers were paid to sharpen their knives while they were on the job during the day. But DOL officials said they found many workers would sharpen knives during their leisure time.
 The department said also that it found some workers cleaning their safety gloves and protective arm and leg shields at the same time they were washing their work clothes and thus should be compensated for that time.
 The settlement, covering two harvest seasons, averaged $14 per worker, or less than seven cents a day.
 As part of its Open Harvest program begun three years ago in which the company invited the media and the public to scrutinize company operations, U.S. Sugar requested the Department of Labor conduct a thorough field audit of all company operations. At the time, U.S. Sugar officials asked the department to uncover anything not in compliance with both the letter and spirit of the law and instruct the company how it could best be corrected.
 The department sent several senior officials to Clewiston and conducted a three-month investigation beginning in November 1991. The results of that investigation, delivered approximately one year later, were then subjected to negotiations and the final signing of an agreement last week.
 The payment to workers for transportation costs stems from an earlier claim about the 1988-1989 harvest season not related to the Wage and Hour audit. The DOL said the money was owed to 336 workers from islands other than Jamaica. The company previously settled this issue with farmworker labor advocates. The advocates claimed workers who came from the islands other than Jamaica to jobs in Florida, and were reimbursed the cost of transportation from Jamaica to Florida and back, should not bear the cost of the amount of travel to other islands.
 Earlier, the governments of the lower islands from which approximately 15 percent of workers came, had agreed to cover this additional cost as an inducement for U.S. Sugar to hire their workers. It was found later that the governments withheld these transportation costs from workers' savings.
 The U.S. Department of Labor said the ultimate responsibility for that cost should rest with U.S. Sugar, despite the fact that the company was not accused of any wrong-doing in the matter.

Robert Buker, senior vice president of U.S. Sugar, said he "was pleased that the rigorous investigation by the Department of Labor covering thousands of employee records over a period of several years, dealing with every labor law applicable to our company, had turned up only a few relatively minor concerns totalling seven cents per day."
 "Our decision in this matter was that we invited the scrutiny and we pledged to correct anything, however small, concerning how we conduct our business," Mr. Buker said.

Most weather forecasters figured the 1994 hurricane season was over

By Mike Lyons

It ain't over until the fat lady sings. I think it was that noted baseball philosopher Yogi Berra who coined that now-famous expression. Yogi, of course, was talking about baseball but that phrase can be applied to the 1994 hurricane season as well.

Just when you thought it was safe to put away the hurricane tracking charts until next year, the tropics have suddenly become quite active. In the past week, Hurricane Florence and Tropical Storm Gordon popped up in the Atlantic basin.

Frankly, most of us in the weather business had figured this hurricane season was over weeks ago. September saw very little activity and October was very quiet. No tropical storms, no hurricanes. In fact, the entire season had been below normal.

Up until last week, only five storms had formed during the 1994 hurricane season that began on June 1. Of those five storms only one, Chris, had developed into a hurricane. Those figures are well below the normal total of ten named storms and six hurricanes.

Chris, by the way, was a pretty wimpy hurricane. His top winds only reached 75 mph and he retained hurricane status for just over 24 hours. This would have been the first year since 1925 with only one hurricane.

According to the National Hurricane Center, from 1871 until this year, a total of 43 named storms had developed during the month of November. Of those 43 storms, 22 matured into hurricanes. By comparison, during that same period over 300 storms had formed in September.

It is even more rare to have a November hurricane hit the United States mainland. Of those 22 hurricanes that were born in November only four struck the U.S. And guess what? All four hit Florida.

Our most recent November storm was Hurricane Kate.

Kate formed on Nov. 15, 1985 in the Atlantic Ocean about 300 miles north of Puerto Rico. For the next week, the storm traveled nearly west skirting the northern coast of Cuba. On Nov. 23, Kate entered the Gulf of Mexico, took a bit turn to the north and made landfall near Panama City.

Our other November troublemakers were a long time ago. Hurricanes struck Florida in November 1935, 1925 and 1916. The 1935 storm wasn't particularly strong but it's timing was lousy. It came two months after the Labor Day Hurricane had slammed into the Keys killing over 400 people.

The 1925 hurricane season was one of the quietest in recorded history. Only two storms developed that year and only one developed into a hurricane. That one hurricane formed on November 29 and made landfall near Tampa in early December.

By contrast, the 1916 hurricane season was one of our busiest. A total of 14 named storms evolved that year including 11 hurricanes. The last storm of the year was born on November 11 striking the Keys four days later.

So, November hurricanes are rare but not unheard of. By the way, we've even had hurricanes in December. I guess when it comes to hurricanes the fat lady doesn't get a chance to sing very often.

Mike Lyons is the weatherman for WPBF, Channel 25.

Missions' Bazaar at Church of the Nazarene in Pahokee

Glenda Watson

A bake sale and yard sale will be held on the lawn of the Church of the Nazarene in Pahokee, on Saturday, Nov. 19, beginning at 7:30 a.m. The proceeds from this will help with the expense to send Glenda Eldridge on a Work and Witness team to Portugal.

The Church of the Nazarene has over 600 missionaries world-wide.

Through this project, a lay person pays her own way and helps buy material to build various buildings. In Portugal a commercial building will be turned into a church.

Ms. Eldridge is a clerk at the Pahokee Post Office and lives in Canal Point. She is active in her church and hopes through the effort of this bazaar to be able to take her skills to the mission field for two weeks.

The bazaar will have all kinds of 'sweets' in the bake sale and all kinds of items in the yard sale.

For further information, you may call Evelyn Norwood at 924-7123, or the church at 924-7998.

The Living Christmas Tree at Dolly Hand

By Maria Wise Miller

The holiday season is fast approaching. The tell-tale signs are everywhere. At the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center, we hear the beautiful voices of the children in our community as well as the majestic sounds of the grow-ups hard at work on the new music for the Sixth Annual Living Christmas Tree program.

This year the adult choir is once again under the able direction of Carol Schmidt and the children are working on a special program with Becky

Watson and Clarice Davis. The entire group agrees, this will be the best program yet. Participants for this show come from all the communities around the Lake including Belle Glade, Pahokee, South Bay, Canal Point and Clewiston.

And what a sight to behold. The beautiful Christmas tree lights up with over 1,000 multi-colored lights, evergreen ferns and 50 "living" decorations as the choir, dressed in sequined red gowns for the ladies and matching formals for the gentlemen, add sparkle.

And its not too late to join the adult choir. If you would like to participate, contact the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center for more information.

Tickets are now on sale and you are urged to get your tickets early as this event was completely sold out last year. The shows are Saturday, Dec. 3, at 7 p.m.; and Sunday, Dec. 4, at 3 p.m. All tickets are $2. Box office hours for the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center are Mondays and Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. or by calling 992-6160.

Ardis Hammock gets presidential nomination

By Earlene Kuck
Clewiston News

Ardis Hammock of Clewiston was honored at a luncheon recently at the Clewiston Inn by family and friends.

They were celebrating her birthday as well as her presidential appointment to serve on the ATAC Trade Committee.

Secretary of Agriculture Mike Espy and U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor recently selected Mrs. Hammock to serve on the Agricultural Technical Advisory Committee (ATAC) for Trade in Sweeteners.

The duty of the ATAC for Trade in Sweeteners is to provide advice and information regarding trade issues which affect both domestic and foreign production connected with the sweetener industry.

Each committee is required to meet at the conclusion of negotiations for each trade agreement entered into by the U.S. and provide a report on such agreement to the president, to Congress, and to the U.S. Trade Representative.

The ATAC for Trade in Sweeteners consists of 25 members who serve two-year terms.

"Sugarcane growers in Florida and around the national are fortunate to have Ardis serve on this extremely important committee," said Andy Rackley of the Florida Sugar Cane League. According to Mr. Rackley, "her involvement in a family sugarcane farm has given her a sensitivity to farmers' needs which is badly needed in shaping agricultural policy."

Private sector advice is a critical and integral part of the trade policy process. With the passage of NAFTA and the negotiation of the Uruguay Round agreement under the auspices of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), the ATAC will play a significant role in shaping U.S. Agricultural trade policy into the next century.

Mrs. Hammock and her husband, Alan, are both Clewiston residents who graduated from Clewiston High School and received their college degrees from Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College in Tifton, Ga.

They are both active at the Frierson Farm between Clewiston and Haden.

They have two children, 11-year-old Robert, and 10-year-old Sarah, who attend school in Moore Haven. Mrs. Hammock is a long-time member of Everglades Women Involved in Farm Economics, is active in

Ladies of the Lake, volunteers at school functions and attends the local Methodist church.

She will be leaving for Washington, D.C. this week to attend her first meeting of ATAC.

Too close to the polls?

"I'm wondering if someone from the City of South Bay could please explain why they are storing polling signs for Chiles/McKay at the first station Bay, right next to the polling booth."

I thought they had to be 500 feet away or more. I thought someone could give an answer to that."

Editor's note: Hopefully, someone will respond to this question in next week's edition of The Sun.

Responding to the mercury Speak Out

"Hi. We're calling to respond to the Speak Out in last week's paper titled 'Good point,' in reference to the mercury lawsuit against the city."

We believe that the city has been negligent by not enforcing the code provisions that require the removal of the abandoned vehicles.

We are aware the children were responsible in coming in, but it's up to us as adults to keep things safe and if it causes harm we're responsible for these actions if it is on our property regardless if it was kids. That's why they have us to look after them. As to the lawsuit, I believe there is only one family suing at this time, but the children who were involved in this particular family's lawsuit, none of them were ever in contact with this mercury at the site. They never went into the van to get this mercury out.

So, if who ever spoke out on Nov. 10 would like to comment, we would appreciate it."

More on mercury

"I'm calling in reference to the mercury lawsuit Speak Out last week.

Apparently the person who spoke out doesn't have children of their own, because children are children and they're not aware of what's right or wrong, especially very young youth.

Another thing, there were no "No Trespassing" signs, so even if these kids were old enough to read, they're not going to understand what's right or wrong about trespassing or how hazardous this material was.

And parents can't keep their eyes on their children 24-hours a day. It's impossible.

Please comment to this in your next week's newspaper. Thank you."

Editor's note: We received a third call about this same subject. This person noted the van had been abandoned for over 12 years. They also could not understand why the city had not removed the van. We spoke with City Manager Lomax Harrelle who said the city cannot address this subject because it is in litigation.

Setting the record straight

"I'm calling to respond to the Nov. 10 Speak Out about all the county commissioners being against chain link fencing."

I'd just like to let the person know that Mr. Foster was out in the Glades speaking to the Belle Glade Rotary Club (when this issue was discussed).

Commissioner Foster is certainly in favor of chain-link fences because we all have them in this area."

So, I just wanted you to know that it wasn't all the commissioners who felt this way. I think it was just one or two."

Thank you for being concerned."

Letters to the Editor

Problems with animal control continue

Dear Editor:

I would like to voice my concern about the Animal Control Unit in Belle Glade.

I work for a local physician in Belle Glade and for several weeks we have had a pack of dogs around our office. We have called Animal Control after 10 a.m., when they finally open, to ask them to come pick these animals up as they are growling and chasing our patients as well as fighting in front of our office.

When you call Animal Control you always get someone who is extremely rude to begin with, and then are told that they will come whenever they can.

Then we are told that unless these dogs are confined by us they are not chasing them to pick them up. Finally, out of concern for the welfare of our patients, we purchased ropes and caught one of these animals for them.

When the officer came to pick up this dog, I informed him that a local police officer had tied another across the street and that there were two more dogs around the one I tied up.

Well, he got the one I tied up and then stated that since the one the officers tied up was chained now, and the man across the street says it was his, he couldn't do anything about that one. He also did not get either of the other two that were around.

I would like to know exactly what these people are being paid by the taxpayers to do? I thought that there was a leash law in the city and if a dog is loose, it was their duty to pick it up.

Am I wrong in this assumption? If so, I think we ought to just eliminate these jobs as they are doing nothing but riding around on taxpayers time.

What do we have to do, wait on these dogs or another dog to attack an innocent person or child before something can be done?

I have a dog, who is confined at my home where she should be, not running all over town. But I guess that if I wanted to, I could just let mine run free. There seems to be no law against that in this town.

I bet that if my dog bit an intruder at my home I would be sued by the lawbreaker and probably get a stiffer penalty than the criminal would.

This is not the way things should be in this or any town, to be afraid to take a walk because you could get bitten by a stray dog because we have no one to take care of the problem, even though they are on the county payroll.

Sincerely,
Mary Bowen
Belle Glade

Editor's note: We asked Lt. Alice Geiger with Animal Care and Control to respond to Ms. Bowen's letter. Here is her response:

"Animal Care & Control responds to a variety of complaints concerning animals throughout Palm Beach County. Animal control officers are certified through the state and trained to respond to numerous issues. Officers must abide by established state and local laws to legally impound animals or cite law offenders.

On the morning in question, the officer was working a similar complaint in Pahokee. When the officer completed his call, he was dispatched to this physician's office in Belle Glade. When the officer arrived, the dogs were gone. The officer did inform the office staff that if the dogs returned, to call the office and he would return to the area. He did mention that if they could confine any of the dogs, and not harm themselves, he would be able to immediately pick them up and then try to apprehend the others."

Property Rights are the missing link in Florida's land-use debate

By John W. Cooper

In virtually every community in Florida lively debates are taking place over zoning, land-use planning, and growth management. But there is one phrase that is seldom uttered: private property rights. If property rights were better understood, many of the problems associated with land-use regulation would disappear.

Historically, Americans enjoyed a constitutional right to use their private property as they saw fit as long as they did not (1) interfere with the rights of others to do the same, or (2) do tangible harm to the "common-pool" property, such as air and water.

Recently, however, Florida's growth-management regulations and other land-use policies seem to be based on an additional idea: the "majority preference" ought to govern the use of private property.

To understand the critical difference between the "tangible harm" approach to land-use regulation and the "majority preference" model, consider the case of tiny Bridgewater, Vir.

A few years ago, this town of 3,500 residents learned of plans for a new Hardee's restaurant at the main intersection.

If spoke with one prominent resident who asked, "If a majority of citizens prefer not to have a fast-food restaurant in Bridgewater, why can't we tell our city council to stop it?"

He did not say a new restaurant would create a traffic problem, a water-pollution problem, or any other problem affecting the common good. I replied, "If there's no reason behind your opposition to the new restaurant other than mere preference, what would prevent a majority of voters from requiring a McDonald's to be built rather than a Hardee's?" He could not answer my question.

Of course, there is a compelling moral reason why preference is not a legitimate basis for regulating the use of private property. James Madison, writing in The Federalist 200 years ago, warned that a democracy without constitutional protections of individual rights would degenerate into majoritarian tyranny.

In effect, he was saying that, if 51 percent of the people ever obtain the legal power to vote to expropriate the private property of the other 49 percent through confiscation, taxation, or regulatory controls - America's experiment in "ordered liberty" will have ended in failure. Piecemeal expropriation can have the same effect.

How then should we resolve the controversial issues surrounding land-use, zoning, and growth management in Florida?

First we should reject the idea that majority preference is a legitimate reason to override the decisions of private property owners. A society that values freedom should not allow some to control the non-harmful acts of others.

The only reasonable basis for regulating the decisions of private property owners, as stated in the 1982 Report of the President's Commission on Housing, is "vital and pressing governmental interest."

The vital-interest criteria establishes five legitimate cases for land-use regulation: (1) danger to health and safety, (2) harm to neighboring property, (3) harm to the environment, (4) damage to public infrastructure, such as roads, and (5) altering genuinely unique historic properties.

Florida's land-use regulations and growth management laws should be amended to state clearly that "vital and pressing interest" - not majority preference - will govern land-use decision. Otherwise, the assault on the constitutional rights of property owners will continue. And people who tolerate unconstrained government control of private property may soon find their remaining freedoms under siege.

Dr. John W. Cooper is the former president of The James Madison Institute for Public Policy Studies, a non-profit research organization devoted to improving Florida's government. Mr. Cooper is also the president, and headmaster of Wichita Collegiate School in Wichita, Kan.

Let's go back to the old Halloween

"I just wanted the community to know that Halloween is not the way it used to be. Now all it is kids running door-to-door seeing who can get there first and how many people than can run over in the mean time."

I've also noticed that all the parents do now is ride around in their cars and follow their kids up and down the streets.

I understand some of them are unable to walk but a lot of them can and they need to do it. They are making the roadways very unsafe for the other people.

These kids don't know when to walk in front of the cars because they don't know if they're going to be moving right then. There must have been at least 15 cars in one block of a neighborhood and there was no way to go around these vehicles and go door-to-door.

People really need to go back to the way it used to be. People used to enjoy the evening and take their time. I know the mosquitoes are bad. I know crime is a lot worse. But if we can please take back over our neighborhoods and enjoy Halloween the way it used to be.

I just really cry for my son sometimes because he can't experience it the way it used to be."

Letter to the editor

The dogs apparently are able to go under the doctor's office or run through the open areas of the building and avoid apprehension. The officer spoke to the man who owns the one dog that the officer from the Belle Glade Police Department was able to tie up. The dog has a recent rabies shot and tag. The owner was informed of the leash law but the officer had no legal means of impounding the animal under control of the owner. The officer did attempt to apprehend the other two dogs, but his attempt was unsuccessful. Callers requesting services are told that an officer will respond to a complaint as soon as possible. It should be understood that there is only one

Animal Control Officer to respond to all areas in the western part of Palm Beach County. Over 100 animals are impounded monthly from the Glades area.

ACS schedules Great American Smokeout

On Thursday, Nov. 17, the American Cancer Society expects more than 9 million smokers to "kick a little butt". That is, quit smoking for at least 24 hours. Unfortunately, wanting to quit and succeeding are often two different things.

The American Cancer Society's South Palm Beach Unit is hosting a FREESS single sessions (one hour) program on smoking cessation. SMART MOVE will give the facts and teach you how to develop a plan, change some habits,

GFC offers rules for hunters

As various seasons open for taking game throughout Florida, many hunters are making plans for a trip into the woods to bag their favorite quarry. Unfortunately, trips can end in tragedy when hunters fail to practice safe gun handling procedures.

According to Captain Ed Tyer, hunter education coordinator for the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, last season there were 23 firearm and archery hunting-related accidents with no fatalities, the lowest accident rate in the past 20 years. Self-inflicted accidents continue to play a significant role in the overall accident rate. Over one-third of the hunting accidents were self-inflicted.

Capt. Tyer is reluctant to give the credit to the state's hunter safety training course for these results as one year may only indicate a trend. The goal is no accidents. However, it's significant that, since mandatory hunter safety training and the hunter orange requirement were passed, hunting-related accidents have been declining over the past several years.

"Hunting accidents do not just happen," Capt. Tyer said. "They are caused by negligence and disregard for basic hunting safety rules. Most accidents can be prevented if hunters use good common sense when handling firearms."

Capt. Tyer offers advice to the

The varsity football team will enter the Class 2A playoffs this Friday with a home game at 7:30 p.m. As of Monday, our opponent was yet to be determined due to a three-way tie for second place. Tickets are $5 general admission and $6 for reserved seats.

The Booster Club is sponsoring a barbecue chicken dinner from 5-7 p.m. Friday evening before the game. Tickets are available from the football players or the high school office for $6 each and include a chicken dinner with all the trimmings. There should also be tickets available at the door. Come early and take advantage of our new air conditioned cafeteria!

Nine teachers from the west campus attended the Florida Association for Christian Colleges and Schools convention Nov. 10-11. They report the conferences were inspiring and motivating.

REMINDER TO PARENTS: The yearbook staff is taking orders for the 1995 GATOR annual through Tuesday, Nov. 22. Yearbooks are $35 for underclassmen, $37 for seniors. Those who order theirs by Thursday, Nov. 17, will be eligible for a cash drawing of $25 for the winner and $10 for the second name drawn.

Be sure to order yours now - if there are any extra yearbooks left in the spring, they will be $45.

- Keep busy. Hold a pencil or pen instead of a cigarette.
- Chew gum or carrot sticks when you have the urge to smoke.
- Drink lots of water and fruit juices, and avoid spicy foods, coffee, and soft drinks with caffeine that can trigger a desire for cigarettes.

• Change your habits connected with smoking. Leave the gin-ner table soon after eating to avoid the desire to light up. When on the phone, reach for gum instead of a cigarette.

Watch the muzzle. Be able to control the direction of the muzzle even if you should stumble.

• Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun.

• Be sure the barrel and action are clear of obstruction and that you have only ammunition of the proper size for the gun you are carrying.

• Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger. Know identifying features of the game you hunt.

Unloaded guns when not in use. Take down or have actions open. Gun should be carried in closed cases to the shooting area.

• Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot. Avoid all horseplay with a firearm.

• Never climb a fence or tree or jump a ditch with a loaded gun. Never pull a gun toward you by the muzzle.

• Never shoot a bullet at a flat, hard surface or water. At target practice, be sure your backdrop is adequate.

• Store guns and ammunition separately beyond the reach of children and careless adults.

• Avoid alcoholic beverages and other mood altering drugs before and during shooting.

Belle Glade Commissioner gives assistance to nursing home residents

Tammy Jackson
Staff Reporter

Not only do elderly people live in nursing homes, there are also people who have hearing problems, Alzheimer's disease and missing body parts, therefore, according to Belle Commissioner Daniel Bythwood, "these people are a special group of people."

Retired from the Palm Beach County School System, Mr. Bythwood works part-time with the adult education program. Working with this program, Mr. Bythwood travels from Belle Glade to Glades Nursing Home in Pahokee six days a week, working on physical fitness and exercise with the residents.

Residents attending the morning exercises are either blind, missing arms, legs or suffering from Alzheimer's disease, but Mr. Bythwood said they all look forward to going to the exercise room and learning to use another part of the body if one part can't function. Mr. Bythwood said, "I have a man who is blind in my group but he can hit a ball by listening to sound."

The morning stretch exercises start with wiggling fingers, bending arms and flexing legs. Mr. Bythwood then works with each resident individually in hopes of developing skills, while the others cheer that particular resident on while waiting for their turn.

Mr. Bythwood said the residents look forward to him coming in the mornings. Days when he is not scheduled to be at the center, the residents are still looking for him, said Mr. Bythwood.

Following the morning exercise sessions, Mr. Bythwood furnishes coffee and doughnuts to the residents. He said he knows there are some of them who come to the sessions for the doughnuts, but whatever reason they come, Mr. Bythwood said he enjoys them all very much.

Residents sit anxiously waiting for their turn to exercise with Mr. Bythwood. Walter (left) is missing a leg and he is blind, however, Mr. Bythwood taught him he could hit a ball by listening for it.

Numerous people donned and sported MUCK BOWL T-shirts Friday. Over 1,000 of the shirts were sold and most of the crowd in attendance at the ball game wore the shirts.

Fans poured out in numbers to witness the Raiders and Blue Devils in the annual MUCK BOWL. The winner of the MUCK BOWL wins bragging rights to the best football team on the 'muck'.

Raiders prevail over Blue Devils in annual MUCK BOWL

By Alexa Lutz and Robbie Everett

The MUCK BOWL is over and the Glades Central Raiders have won the trophy and the bragging rights of the "MUCK". The game proved to be all of what Glades-area residents had expected it to be. During the past week, both schools kept in-house design busy with T-shirt orders (over 1,000 sold).

Last Thursday night's event, the MUCK BOWL dinner, was strated by Dr. Effie Gear four years ago to bring the athletes together. She said we are friends and neighbors and when the game is over, it should remain that way.

Coca-Cola Representative Jim Panell co-sponsored the banquet and provided the drinks and MUCK BOWL T-shirts for the players and coaches. He also promised four tickets to the MVPs from each team to the University of Miami versus Boston College game.

The highlight of the occasion came when guest speaker Wayne Barton, Boca Raton Community Police, challenged the athletes to make good decisions. "Sports may take you to level but God and education will take you further."

The reason Mr. Barton got involved with the youth is that he finds it's cheaper to educate them than to incarcerate them.

Each player was reminded not to rely on athletic ability but academic ability. "Knowledge is the greatest power you can have."

Mr. Barton is sponsoring a football camp in Boca Raton in April 1995 with Keith Byers and 80 professional football players. The MUCK BOWL winners get free charge of participation.

Friday night was showdown. With both teams hyped and ready to play, the annual game was under way.

The stadium was filled. There was no room in the stands. Blue and white, maroon and gold, fans, fans, fans.

Pahokee struck first as Jabahres Everetts marched the team downfield for a score by LaFann Williams. Then, an Everett to Jeremy Hanna pass gave the Blue Devils an 8-0 lead.

Glades Central's Nathaniel Freeman scored in the second quarter on a 7-yard pass from JaJuan Seider.

During the third quarter, the Raiders started to put the game away with an 80-yard run from James Jackson, and a successful PAT from kicker, Gerald Louis, leaving the score 14-8.

The last quarter sealed the Raiders' win with a 9-yard run from senior Joaquin McGowan.

Several times the Blue Devils were in a position to score but the Raiders' defense had several great goal line stands giving the Raiders possession of the ball.

"The defense had to make some adjustments in the first half but we came out ready to hit in the second half," said defensive tackle Robert Newkirk.

Raider James Jackson gained 163 yards of the Raiders' total 177 rushing yardage. He ended the regular season with more than 1,000 yards rushing.

The Raiders will face the Immokalee Indians in the opening game of the semifinals. The Raiders' defense will be facing a tough running team who like to grind away inch by inch toward the goal.

"The Indians will have a hard time trying to run the ball because we have an excellent defense against the run," said Raider fan Eddie Fletcher.

The Raiders, highly-touted as a state-winning team, have a lot to prove on Friday night. With a record of 9-1, they've got to show their stuff with an impressive win.

"It's a very important game. This is like a second season and get to start all over again. There's a lot of pressure to win," said Raiders' Head Coach Milton Watson.

"The team is loaded with seniors and talent so the community expects us to go all the way. The Indians were defeated by the Clewiston Tigers last week 19-13 with two touchdown passes. The cutting edge in the Raiders/Indian game will be the passing ability of the Raider quarterback, JaJuan Seider.

Lightning cancels GDS final game; Gators heading for playoffs

The Glades Day School Gators ended their regular season this past Saturday. The Gators traveled to Hollywood Christian but due to lightning, the game was cancelled. Officials have said the game will not be rescheduled or replayed. The Gators ended their regular season with a record of 8-1. Their only loss was against LaBelle on Oct. 28. District action will begin tomorrow.

Former Raider now filling big shoes

By Mark Drebin
STB Football Reporter

The big question of Gators Coach Steve Spurrier was "how do I replace Eric Rhett?"

The question was answered. The answer is Fred Taylor.

Taylor is a true freshman. Last year he was one of the most heavily-recruited running backs in the country. At Glades Central High School, he rushed for 1,545 yards on 150 carries (10.3 average), and scored 20 touchdowns.

He was a good size at 215 lbs. and good speed (4.4, forty). He is a shifty runner inside. He finds the hole well and he can turn a short gain into a lot more.

What makes him so good in Coach Spurrier's Fun and Gun Offense is that he can catch the ball very well and he can also block to protect the quarterback.

Fred Taylor

Taylor has good hands and he has the speed to turn a dump pass into a long gain.

He also has the size: at 6'1", 215 lbs, to block a big blitzing linebacker looking for the quarterback's head.

Taylor is the final piece of Coach Spurrier's Fun and Gun Offense and him being able to replace Eric Rhett is the reason that the Gators are averaging over 50 points per game.

The Pahokee JROTC presented the colors and flag at the MUCK BOWL Friday night.

The GCCH cheerleaders were on hand Friday night to cheer their team on to a victory.

In a highly-watched game, cheerleaders take time out for a brief photo session with the photographer.

Blue Devil Flag Girls practiced before the MUCK BOWL in preparation for an outstanding halftime performance.

The principals from both high schools meet after the game to express congratulations and success stories. Dr. Effie Gear (right) sports the MUCK BOWL trophy while Eugenia Jones (right) congratulates D. Gear.
